

Primary Care Rural Health Scholarship

The Primary Care Rural Health Scholarship was established by the Primary Care Initiative in 2022, to recognize and financially support ICOM Student Doctors with a demonstrated interest in rural medicine and primary care.

In order to be eligible for this scholarship, students must meet the following criteria:

- Enrolled full-time at the Idaho College of Osteopathic Medicine
- In good stand-in (not on academic probation or leave of absence)
- Demonstrated commitment to Idaho, the practice of primary care, and rural medicine
- Evidence of strong leadership within the class and community
- Noteworthy achievements, including awards, honors, and extracurricular activities
- Evidence of financial need.

Applicants must submit an essay in response to the supplemental questions outlined below.

Scholarship Amount

$10,000

Deadline

May 15, 2022

Supplemental Questions

Provide a written response (1,000 words or less) to the following:

- Statement of good standing (not on academic probation or leave of absence).
- Describe your commitment to practicing primary care medicine in rural Idaho. Please address each of the following:
 - Your reasons for choosing primary care medicine
 - How rural practice aligns with your career goals
 - Your commitment to working in rural Idaho
- Describe your leadership skills within the class and community, and provide examples of your leadership experiences.
